DR.CALISCHON "PARSIFAL"

Rabbi Says the Stage Is a Child of the Church and Possesses Great Educational Value.

Before /a large congregation at Beth Ahaba Synagogue last night, Dr. 15. N. Callsch preached a notable service on the subject, "A Rabbi's Impression of

While in New York a short while ago Dr. Calisch saw the opera that has created such a sensation in the religious world. In recording his impressions of the play he gives to it the highest praise He takes direct issue with those who have objected to the opera, in which class are included a number of Richmond ministers, and some of the denominational weeklies, which have expressed themselves pretty strongly upon the subject.

Text: Psalm xxiv-3;6.

THE SERMON.

The Rabbi began by saying that some persons had objected to the portrayal of a religious theme on the stage. These stem to forget, two things: First, the fact that the stage is the child of the church. The "drama was born at the foot of the alfar," says Mr. Hamilton W. Mable, and he speaks with knowledge. The earliest dramatic presentations were religious ceremonies. The modern drama evolved from the miracle plays of the madiaeval church. Second, the objectors seem to overlook the educational value of the stage. Until the time of Shakespeare, the drama was hardly regarded as an avenue for serious literary effort. But since the day of Avon's bard there has been scarcely any literary luminary of any brilliance who has not "essayed the drama. For the theatre offers the widest field for poetic inspiration. It is a microcosm, a little world in itself, upon whose boards are reproduced the tragedy and comedy of life. Because of this kinship to our life its appeal and its influence are inestimable. Expecially "s. was this the case before the day of the daily paper and the periodical magazine. That the influence and the power of the stage may be perverted to evil use cannot be deficed. Such is the danger of every human institution. None will deny the utility and the necessity of government. Yet government has been prostituted into tyranny and despotism. I would say further that in all the years since Shapespeare, the stage has not caused as much risery and bloodshed as were produced by the single occasion of witchcraft in any one century in England, or Scotland or France.

It has been my observation that when the stage does essay a strictly religious by the single occasion of witcheratt in rny one century in England, or Scotland or France.

It has been my observation that when the stage does essay a strictly religious theme, it does so with a reverence and a serious carnestness that is not surpassed within any sacred edifice. The passion play at Oberammergau is an act of devotion. The production of Parsifal at Bayreuth is the meca of an annual pilgrimage of worshippers. And as it was produced in New York it impressed me as would a service in a cathedrai or a church. There is an atmosphere of reverence and exaltation in the presentation that has subdued even the frivolity of the metropolitan aristocracy. One fiels that there is portrayed before him with the irresistible eloquence of melody the story of a sin-tainted soul striving penitently for pardon, and the career of ar innocent soul keeping itself pure and stainless against all the temptations of the world and the flesh. The marvel of the mechanical accessories and the beauty of the appeal that penetrates to the add to the appeal that penetrates to the

After giving the story of Parsifal Rabbi Calisch spoke of the Holy Grail. He said there was a tradition, that origi-rated most probably in England, of a rated most probably in England, of a knight who, by reason of his pure and unsulled life had attained to heights of hollness that touch the divine. This knight was made the central figure of many legends and romances, that have been handed down in literature, chief of which are the Arthurian legends so beautifully rendered by Tennyson, and this story of Parsifal (which is the English Percival) as given by the Middle-German poet, Wolfrain von Eschenbach.

German poet, Wolfrain von Eschenbach.
The tradition was crystalized by the church into the story of a cup, which was used by Jesus at the last supper, and again used to catch some of "his blood. This cup, called the holy grall, became a precious relic, possessed of miraculous powers. It was guarded by a company of knights of unsuited life.
Only one whose life was pure and free rom saint to sin was eligible to the knighthood of the grall.

It is this phase that we find the uniersal thought renderlying. As almost people have a tradition of a golden age of Eden, innocence and happine sc almost all people have traditions of hero who typifies the virtue and ethica s hero who typifies the virtue and ethical ideals of that people. And humanity recognizes this fact, among all its diverse creeds and beliefs, that there is in humanity a power of exaliation, of noble striving, of pure ideal that is humanity's kinship with divinity. The psalmist expresses this thought in the eighth Psalm, when he makes man to be "but fillidess than angels," and again in the twenty-fourth Psalm, when he asks: "Who can ascend the hill of the Lord, and who stand in His holy place?" and he gives answer, "He who is pure of hands and clean of heart; who has not given his can ascend the hill of the Lord, and who stand in His holy place?" and he gives answer, "He who is pure of hands and clean of heart; who has not given his soul to iniquity, nor sworn to deceit." Here you have a perfect picture of the moral hero, the knight of purity and integrity. The whole story of human engeavor is one of constant effort to reach perfection. The divine posibility of human nature is that which renders us potential God-like heroes. The unswerving obedience to the voice of conscience is the mark of the righteous man. It is not creed, but conscience; not doctrine, but deed, that make the moral hero. Theologies are many; religion is one. Who can dare question the recesses of the soul that seeks communion with its God as how it will? Faith is a precious fire within the heart's holy of holies. Let none enter there with irreverent tread. Truth is a gem with many facets, though its light be but one. But the deed is the common possession of the race, and if it be pure, honest, unselfish, and God-honoring, it brings its doer within the knighthood of the holy and the communion of the neroes of truth. A postess of our own faith has well phrased it:

well phrased it:
The north-star shows the mariner—home;
The southern-cross guides men who ream;
What matter from which star the light,
It it but lead at lifet aright?
Both in their beauty we admire,
God gays to each its shining fire.

Useful all the Year Round.

Virginia Democrats in Congress Would Regret to See It Abandoned.

TO GIVE IT A FULL TRIAL

There May be a Fight to Secure Abolition of the Viva Voce Method in Local Contests.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.) WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 5,-An in conspicuous paragraph in The Times-Dispatch of last Wednesday to the effect that a member of the State Senate, name unknown to the reader, had said that the primary plan of choosing candidates in Virginia would be abandoned, has created a great deal of talk among the Virginia Democrats in Congress. There is general rigret that the name of the senator quoted was withheld, as it is desired to know who is taking such a surprising position.

Every member of the Virginia delegation thinks the primary plan will be given a full trial before it is discarded. There will perhaps be a fight in the next State convention for the purpose of securing the abolition of the viva voce curing the abolition of the viva voce feature entirely, and it is pretty certain that the feature will be so modified as to allow the voting for local candidates to be entirely by secret ballot. The warmest advocates of the viva voce method appear in the main to be willing to grant this. They are strongly opposed to eliminating the viva voce feature entirely. tirely.

I have never heard a breath of any "I have never heard a breath of any in-tention of discarding the primary system in Virginia," said one of the most prom-inent members of the Virginia delegation, who has for many years held a leading position in the party in Virginia, He de-clined to allow his name to be used in connection with the matter because of several criticisms which have recently been made concerning members of Congress expressing their views on matters at home. "I know that if there were at home. "I know that if there were any sentiment or any move in the direction of the abolition of the primary plan I would have heard of it. I believe the method is growing in popularity all the time, and I think it will be a long time before there is any sentiment in favor of discarding it.

favor of discarding it."

This is the view of all the delerger
Senator Martin has repeatedly declared that he is not opposed to the primary plan, and Senator Daniel is not doing anything to make it distasteful to the people, or taking any steps which will result in its abolition.

Summed up in the language of the street, there is a pretty shrewd suspicion among the Virginians that the State senator who predicted the early abolition of the primary plan was "talking through his hat."

Owners of Property Adjoining Norfolk Navy-Yard Will Accept $400,000.

INCREASE IN EXPENDITURE

Mr. Rixey Predicts That We Shall Soon be Spending $150,-000,000 Annually on Navy.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 5,-The naval appropriation bill, which will be reported to the House-in a few days, will ontain a provision for the purchase of the Schmoele tract of 272 acres adjoining the Norfolk navy yard, and to be used in the enlargement of the yard. The value of the tract was fixed by

The value of the tract was fixed by the commissioners appointed under condemnation proceedings at a sum considerably in excess of $400,000, but the government will get it for this amount. It was stated to the committee that the owner of the land had agreed to take $40,000 for it. The tract is to be used in the extension of the yard.

It is not settled that the government will immediately undertake the work of extension, but that it will eventually de so there is no doubt. Mr. Rixey, or Virginia, is the senior Democratic member of the committee, and he voted for the item in the bill in order that if at any time the government wished to enlarge there should be no ground for the argument that the necessary land could not be obtained.

argument that the necessary land count not be obtained.

"I believe that in ten years this government will be spending one hundred and fifty millions a year on our navy," said Mr. Rixey to The Times-Dispatch correspondent to-day. "The total of the bill to be reported this year will reach the enormous amount of $95,000,000. The total last year was $78,000,000. Up to the time of the Spanish war in 1898, the government had never expended over $25,000,000 on the navy in any one year. At the rate at which the annual appropriation for the navy is increasing, it is easy to see that it will not be long before we are spending $150,000,000 a year for the navy. I do not favor any more battleships and armored cruisers at this time. Our navy is big enough for all the purposes that we have for it."

The bill will recommend the construction of one battleship, two armored cruisers, two scout cruisers, two coviers and two submarine vessels, at a total cost of $20,000,000. The bill specifically gives to the Secretary of the Navy the option of having the vessels constructed at private or government yards.

"I am confident that the attitude of the Democratic members of the Naval Committee has saved the government hundreds of thousands of dollars in the cost of armor plate," said Mr. Rixcy, "A few years ago it was proposed to pay the munifacturers $345 a ton for it, but the Democrats on the committee made such a fuss that the committee finally agreed, that a smaller price should be paid, and thirty thousand tons have been purchased at one hundred dollars less than the sum it was proposed to pay. be obtained.

The present hill provides that if the armor for the vessels cannot be purchased for a reasonable sum, the government is to establish a plant for the manufacture of the plate, and four millions is appropriated for that purpose.

TO IMPROVE THE CAPITOL

The Anderson Bill, Appropriating a Quarter Million Therefor, Is Reported.

TO ENLARGE THE BUILDING

The Plans Proposed Embrace the Construction of Wings to East and West.

The prospect of the enlargement and chabilitation of the State Capitol is now brighter than it has ever been since the subject was first suggested. The favorable report of the bill, appropriating $250,-000 for the work, according to plans already drawn, made yesterday by the Senate Committee, is regarded as practically assuming the passage of the bill by that body. In the House, it is not likely that the appropriation will be seriously objected to. Mr. Boaz, the chairman of jected to. Mr. Boaz, the chairman of the Finance Committee of that branch, is known to be favorable to the provision of suitable and adequate halls for the two branches of the General Assembly, provided, of course, the State can afford to make the appropriation therefor. It will not be so difficult to secure the funds with the Finance Committee favorable to the plan. There is, therefore, strong probability that the Capitol appropriation will get through before the scaling process is applied to the other demands upon the State revenues.

The Peebles Plan.

The Peebles Plan.

The Peebles Plan.

The plans for the proposed improvement are along the line of those submitted first by John Kevan Peebles, and embrace wings to the least and west of the present structure, with stairs ascending to the portice on the south side. The interior plans and those for the reconstruction of the existing building are a combination of those submittee by Noland and Baskervill, of this city, and Frye and Chesterman, Lynchburg, so that the work will be an architectural cumposite, embracing the best ideas submitted by all three firms.

The General Assembly more than two years, ago, appropriated $100,000 for the rehabilitation and safeguarding of the present structure, and plans were drawn, specifications prepared and bids asked. All the most exceeded the appropriation, because and specifications prepared and bids asked. All the most exceeded the appropriation, however, and the reconstruction was abandoned. There was another reason for the abandonment of the plans, however. It was that they made no provision for enlargement of the halls of the two houses of the Assembly, without which many influential members were unwilling to voit an expenditure of $100,000.

Add to Fund Available.

Add to Fund Available.

That appropriation has never been repealed, and the bill of Senator Anderson proposes the appropriation of an additional $150,000 for the purpose. This sum, it is contended, will be ample for the execution of the plans proposed. The wings to the east and west will afford each a capacious hall of high pitch sufficiently commodious to provide ample room on the floor and space for visitorr with gallerles also. What is most desirable, the dimensions of the halls and the greater pitch will largely increase the cubic air space in the two houses and this with modern ventilation will add immensely to the health and comfort of members.

members.

The principal amendment to the Anderson bill by the Finance Committee is one providing that the remuneration of the architects shall be derived from the appropriation. In short, it is made clear that no additional appropriation is to be image.

SLATTERY TO RETIRE

The Much Denied Statement Seems After All to be Truc.

THE HEAD OF JOSEPHITES

Position Has Been Delicate One Since His Remarkable Sermon Nearly Two Years Ago.

As forecast exclusively in The Times-Dispatch many months ago, the Very Rev. John R. Slattery, once of this city, and now head of the Society of St. Joseph for Negro Missions, will retire and a new superior for the order will be chosen. A statement to this effect was made in this paper five or six months ago, and it seemed to create considerable of a sensation in Catholic circles. At all events, it was cried down in every quarter, and generally declared to be untrue. The statement is now revived and somi-officially announced in a paper commonly looked upon as something of a Catholic organ.

A General Meeting.

In the Baltimore Sun of yesterday there appeared upon the subject of the retirement of Father Stattery nearly a column. The following is part of what the Sun says:

A general meeting of the Society of St. Joseph for Negro Missions will be held in this ofty during the fall for the purpose of electing a successor to Very Rev. John R. Slattery as superior of the order. The meeting will likely be held at St. Joseph's Seminary, on Pennsylvania Avenue, the headquarters of the society. A call for the meetings has not yet been sent out, but, as three months' notice will have to be given, the call may be made in the near future.

to be given, the call may be made in the near future.
This will be the first general meeting of the society since it became independent of the English order, and the call for the meeting will likely indicate that Father Slattery will retire from active supervision of the society. Father Slattery will, however, be elected superior emeritus of the society, and will likely make his home at St. Joseph's Seminary.
Father Slattery's position as active head of the society has been rather a delicate one since his famous sermon which he preached June 23, 1902, at St. Francis Xavier's Catholic Church on the occasion of the first mass of Rev. John Henry Dorsey, colored. That sermon and sub-or the first mass of Rev. John Reiti, Dorsey, colored. That sermon and subsequent expressions by Father Slattery on the negro question caused no little criticism, and while no one ever questioned Father Sattery's sincerity in his effort to help the negro, his expressions were characterized as ill advised.

Father McCarthy in Charge.

Father McCarthy in Charge.

Last June Father Slattery went to Europe, Before leaving he appointed Rev. Justin McCarthy, rector of St. Joseph's Seminary, as his vicar and acting superior of the society. Father Slattery is now in Berlin, and it is understood that the general meeting will be called under his direction, and that he will then signify his intention of retiring from the active work of the superiorship. Indeed, if Father Slattery did not wish to take this action, and if he would be willing to permit the use of his name, he would likely be re-elected superior, as all of the members of the order realize that he deserves well of the society, having devoted his whole work in the ministry to its interests. its interests.
St. Joseph's Society became independen of the English Josephite Order in 1802. Father Slattery was then elected superior. According to a rule of the order, an election for a superior should be held every ten years. When the ten years had expired, and as Father Slattery was the first superior and as all of the memthe first superior, and as all of the mem the first superior, and as all of the members of the society wished him to continue in that office, no election was held. The action of the spencral meeting or chapter of the society will have to be subfitted to the Congregation of the Propaganda at Rome for approval, as the society is directly under that congregation. It is likely that Rev. Justin McCarthy, rector of St. Joseph's Seminary and acting siperior, or Rev. Thomas B. Donovan rector of Epiphany Apostolic College Walbrook, will be elected as the nev

DEFICIENCY BILL PASSED

Provision for Loan of $4,600,000 to St. Louis Exposition Company Remains Part of It.

DECLARATION AGAINST SILVER

Ir. Patterson, of Colorado, Declares Another Campaign on Issue Would be Insanc.

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—The political debate in the Senate on the proposed tion of $4,600,000 to the St. Louis Exposi-tion, which has been in progress on a point of order for the past three days, came to a close to-day through a voto, which failed to sustain the point of order and which had effect of leaving the provision in the urgent deficiency approprovision in the urgent deficiency appropriation bill, which was passed. The only speech of the day on this provision was made by Mr. Patterson, of Colorado, who, while he charged the panie of 1893 to the anti-silver agitation in this and other countries, announced that he was not in favor of another. Democratic pronouncement for silver. Mr. Patterson said that even the people of Colorado realized that the issue of 18 to 1 had been decided against them, but it did not, he said, follow that they would throw themselves into the arms of the trusts. He referred to Mr. Bryan, saying:

"I'am glad that there is one man in ing:

"I am glad that there is one man in the party with power and influence onough to make himself felt who enters his protest against surrendering the party to those who go from one end of the political arena to the other as their ineterests may seem to require."

Mr. Patterson then announced his inetention not to press for a further recognition of free coinage by the Democratic party, saying that "the party is worse than insane which continues to advocate a policy which the country had declared against," Such a course would destroy the usefulness of any party.

After the vote on the deficiency bill the Panama Canal question was taken up and speeches in support of the canal treaty were made by Mr. Mallory, of Florida, and Mr. Loyburn, of Idaho.

Mr. Hoyburn made a brief argument Mr. Heyburn made a brief argument in support of his resolution for the acquisition of San Domingo, which was, he said, right at our door, and which, if was ours, would enable us to protect net only teh canai, but Porto Rice as well. The Senate adjourned until Monday,

In the House.

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—Mr. Sheppard (Democrat, Texas), one of the youngest members of the House, made a determined and persistent effort to-day to bring about a reform in the matter of the distribution of seeds by the government. He contended that the present system is had bad.

Mr. Sheppard's first move was to have struck from the agricultural appropriation bill certain sections providing the machinery for the distribution of the seeds authorized to be purchased under the bill. In this he was successful, his point of order being sustained by the chair, but by an overwhelming vote the House promptly added the sections to the bill by way of amendment. Only three members voted in opposition to the restoration. Mr. Sheppard's further effort was to secure an amendment to the restored sections which would provide for the pursections which would provide for the pur-chase of rare and untried seeds, but despite his earnest appeal for this amend-ment it failed, and the bill was left just as the committee brought it into the House so far as seeds for free distri-bution were concerned.

Mr. Maynard (Virginia) urged that provision be made for the publication of statistics relative to rice, tobacco and trucking products of the same character are now published concerning other agricultural products.

The bill was passed and the House adjourned until Monday.
